The words and images portrayed on motivational posters can often make us feel empowered. In particular the human race responds well to the sayings and teachings of the rich and famous as we can hold them up as icons of the success we ultimately strive for. Motivational posters are often used as reminder to keep us inspired in our everyday lives whether at work or play – to go that extra mile. It is human nature to try to improve ourselves and often those words spoken by someone we most admire is enough to give us the energy to fight the stresses and strains that we may face.
